

StarStone sets out temporary 'work from home' Business Continuity Plan

LONDON: 16 March 2020 - StarStone has set out a temporary 'work from home' Business Continuity Plan from Tuesday 17 March across a number of our global offices. This is in light of recent developments with the Coronavirus (COVID-19) and government health advice.

While our offices are closed, StarStone is very much open for business. As well as protecting the health and wellbeing of our employees, we believe that this will best enable us to continue to offer our brokers and clients our usual business offering.

We look forward to continue to trade, so please reach out to us via mobile and email. A list of our global underwriting contacts can be found here.

Business continuity testing has been carried out thoroughly and all StarStone employees are able to work remotely. Minimal disruption is therefore anticipated. Our offices will reopen in line with advice from government and the relevant health authorities.
